

Assistant Director III Oncology Research Full Time - Florida Hospital Orlando

Florida Hospital is a faith-based, acute-care, not-for-profit health care organization, with eight campus locations and over 2,100 beds in Central Florida. As one of "America's Best Hospitals" (U.S. News & World Report), we serve over one million patients each year across our organization.

The Cancer Institute at Florida Hospital sees more newly diagnosed cancer patients than any other center in the state. Our Clinical Research program, established in the early 1980's, enrolls over 200 patients annually on clinical trials. We are affiliated with NCI, major cooperative groups and industry. Our trials program is nationally recognized for excellence in clinical trial enrollment and has been recognized by ASCO for quality enrollment. Our clinical trials office has expanded twofold over the last two years. We are searching for experienced leadership to join our expert team.

The Assistant Director will be responsible for the daily management and operations of clinical research at all facilities, working hand in hand with the Director and Medical Directors of the Clinical Trials Program.

Requirements: Baccalaureate degree in Nursing or related field; FL RN license; five years management experience; and five years recent oncology research experience. Preferred: Master's degree in a management or health related field; experience managing an oncology clinical research program; knowledge of NCI CCOP requirements/processes; National Research certification (SOCRA or ARCP); and certification in Oncology Nursing preferred.
